

What Is Your Data Telling You?

The business questions your data should already be answering.

This guide contains the five most important data questions for your industry. Pick the question that resonates most, and book a free 30 minute consultation. We will show you how to answer it from data you already have.

Prepared for:

Accounting and Financial Services

Simplify. Streamline. Automate. Grow.

Accounting and Financial Services

For accountants, bookkeepers, financial planners and advisory firms.

01

Which clients are generating the most and least revenue per hour of work delivered?

Most accounting firms track write-offs. Few have a clear view of actual profitability by client, service line and staff member that updates in real time.

02

Where is your team spending time on non-billable work, and what is that costing annually?

Administration, internal meetings, rework and unbilled advice time are invisible costs in most practices. The data is in your time tracking system if you have one.

03

Which clients have not engaged additional services despite clear eligibility?

Cross-sell signals are identifiable from your engagement history and client profile data. Most firms leave adjacent revenue on the table without realising it.

04

What does your fee renewal pipeline look like for the next six months?

Recurring fee agreements, engagement letter renewals and ATO lodgement deadlines create predictable workflow. Most firms manage this reactively.

05

Which compliance lodgements are at risk of missing a deadline across your client base?

BAS, tax returns, SMSF and ASIC obligations all carry penalty risk. A compliance calendar dashboard is the difference between proactive and reactive.

Want to know the answer to one of these for your business?

Book a free consultation

collabedgesolutions.com.au/appt

Our analytics services

collabedgesolutions.com.au/services/analytics

Ready to find out what your data is already telling you?

Book a free 30 minute consultation. No software pitch. No lock-in. Just a clear look at the one question your data should already be answering.

Book a free consultation

collabedgesolutions.com.au/appt

Our analytics services

collabedgesolutions.com.au/services/analytics

sinclair@collabedgesolutions.com.au

Simplify. Streamline. Automate. Grow.